

Even an Englishman Can See Joke On Uncle Sam in Volstead Act

(From the London Daily Express of July 4.)

London Cartoon Shows John Bull Laughing at Our "Dry" July 4.

To the Editor of The Evening World.

The above clipping, which I received from a friend in London, shows what objects of ridicule our brilliant Prohibition law is making of us in the eyes of the world. If heretofore the Britishers have been suspected of having no sense of humor this cartoon should dissipate the idea. In fact, our Prohibition law is so humorous that even our English cousins see the joke of it.

I am sending you the clipping in the hope that you can make use of it in your commendable and courageous opposition against the iniquitous Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act. Yours very truly,

"KEEP IT UP."

JEWES ARE ACCUSED OF RITUAL MURDER

CARLEBAD, July 15 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The discovery of the body of a young Christian girl in Poland, near here, has given rise to credulous circles to the accusation of another alleged "ritual murder" by the Jews. The body was unclashed and investigation is said to have disclosed that there was much loss of blood. Jewish leaders vehemently repudiate the accusation, which still crops up from time to time in Eastern and Central European countries.
